

ADSA / ALBERTA

83rd Annual Meeting of the
American Dairy Science Association
University of Alberta
Edmonton, Alberta, Canada
June 26–29, 1988

THREE GOOD REASONS TO COME:

THE COW

Come for the scientific sessions. Whether you're interested in dairy foods or dairy cattle production—or both—you'll find the latest information on your topic at one or more of the hundreds of paper presentations and poster sessions. The special symposia topics, chosen for their timeliness and importance, include: instrumental methods for measuring milk components; the genetics of lactic acid bacteria; altering the composition of milk; the supply management system in Canada; mammary function during involution and the declining phase of lactation; the genetics of disease resistance; and reproductive immunology.

THE COMPANY

Come to exchange ideas and experiences. Whether you come alone or with friends or family, you'll find plenty of time to renew old friendships and make new ones. There's the barbecue for all at historical Ft. Edmonton; tours for spouses to West Edmonton Mall (the largest in the world), to a historical Ukrainian village, and to a nearby national park; and a three-day outdoor adventure for the youth.

THE COUNTRY

Come a few weeks early, or stay a few weeks after the meeting, and enjoy the excitement and beauty of Alberta. Whether you come from next door or halfway around the world, whether you enjoy country or city, mountains or mall, Alberta has it all! Alberta's two largest cities, Edmonton and Calgary, are clean, cosmopolitan, and friendly with a wide range of restaurants, accommodations, shopping, and cultural attractions. Alberta's scenery is exceptionally beautiful: Banff, Lake Louise, Jasper, Waterton, Glacier; come see it the way you like it—by car, by foot, by canoe, or by horseback.

Additional information: Registration information will be sent to ADSA members and subscribers in late spring; nonmembers may request registration information from the ADSA Headquarters, 309 West Clark Street, Champaign, IL, USA (217/356-3182). Information about Alberta can be obtained from Travel Alberta, Box 2500, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada T5J 2Z4.
